Housing, Inflation Bills Near Final Congress Action

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Congress defied President Truman tonight by preparing to pass its own anti-inflation and housing bills tomorrow and then go home.

With GOP leaders in firm control, the Legislature paid no attention to Mr. Truman's demand that it stop concocting "feeble compromises" and adopt his cost-of-living and housing programs.

The Senate passed a home-building bill minus the slum clearance and low-rent housing subsidies the administration asked. Leaders expected House approval tomorrow.

New Meetings With Russians Listed by Allies

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (AP)—U. S. British and French envoys will hold more meetings with Russian officials before any final agreements materialize as a result of the current four-power talks, it was learned tonight.

A highly informed source said there may be another conference with the Russians tomorrow, but this is unlikely. A meeting Sunday seems more probable, the source said.

Today's conference with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was described as "very thorough." It lasted three hours. Prime Minister Stalin was not present.

AT THIS MEETING, U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau, and Frank Roberts, special British envoy, visited the Kremlin for another try at solving East-West differences.

It appeared tonight that several more meetings may be in order before the current conversations come to an end. It was almost a certainty they would continue into next week.

Although the going may seem slow, it was learned on excellent authority that there is no need for pessimism. In fact, the opposite is true. It was learned that the western power negotiations with Molotov are proceeding smoothly.

Envoys emerged from the conference smiling, but non-committal. "We met with Molotov. No comment," Smith told newspapermen.

Senate passage of the housing bill came after a fight which split republican ranks.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN had asked for action on slum clearance, public-owned low rent homes, aid for rural homes.

These provisions are contained in the Taft-Elliender-Wagner housing bill.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) worked up a compromise bill that contained most of the provisions of the T-E-W bill, but ignored Government subsidized projects.

In a surprise move yesterday, the Senate banking committee decided to disregard McCarthy's compromise measure and offer the T-E-W bill. Argument was bitter and heated over this decision, with Senator Tobey (R-NH), chairman of the banking committee, championing the T-E-W bill.

BUT THE SENATE today overrode its banking committee and voted, 48 to 36, to substitute McCarthy's measure for the T-E-W bill. Approval of the substitute came on a voice vote later.

Senator Taft, one of the authors of the T-E-W bill, advocated passage of the compromise, saying the other and more comprehensive measure could wait for the regular session in January.

The compromise bill would broaden government loan insurance aids on the building of houses costing $6000 or less. It calls for a

Communists Back Wallace Candidacy

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—American Communists today re-elected to high party posts all 12 leaders indicted on charges of advocating the overthrow of the U. S. government. They also announced officially their support of Henry A. Wallace for President. William Z. Foster was renominated national chairman.

A 3000-word platform, adopted at the final session of the party's 14th annual convention, called on all Americans "who hate Fascism to defend the rights of Communists," and lauded Russia as the world's strongest bulwark for peace.

The platform, which announced support of Wallace instead of a presidential candidate of their own, said the Communists would back the Progressive party without seeking any "special position" in it.

The convention urged a policy of friendship with the Soviet Union and called for the United States government to return to the "peace policies" of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

THE OFFICIAL Russian agency ANB said there are specific regulations for forcing down planes which fly over unauthorized areas.

The agency said the 62 violations occurred between July 31 and Aug. 4, and consisted of low-level flights over Soviet airports and towns.

Supply difficulties caused by the Russian blockade of Berlin prompted French authorities to announce today they were evacuating "as many French families as possible" from the city.

On the currency front, western occupation authorities announced that attempts to reach satisfactory arrangements for the release of blocked East-mark accounts "have now been brought to nothing because of the insistence of the bank of issue in the Russian sector upon clearly unacceptable conditions."

TROOPERS QUELL VIOLENCE OVER TENN. ELECTION

National Guard Places Curfew After 2 Killed; Crump Machine Defeated

BENTON, Tenn., Aug. 6 (AP)—National Guardsmen and highway patrolmen laid down a virtual curfew to quiet this Southeast Tennessee town tonight after election strife had left two reported dead and five wounded.

The troopers were ordered here by Gov. Jim McCreedy as tension continued to run high in the wake of a dispute which flared during yesterday's county general election.

The guardsmen arrived only a few hours after the second ambush shooting in two days. The first ended in the death of one man and the wounding of another. In subsequent gunplay another man was slain and four persons wounded.

Col. Dwight D. McCreedy of the 27th Infantry of the Tennessee National Guard ordered all civilians to stay off the streets tonight unless they had specific business aboard. The order was backed up by troops and 30 state highway patrolmen under direction of State Safety Commissioner Lynn Bomar.

BOMAR SAID LATE tonight that eight arrests had been made by patrolmen who patrolled the highways armed with submachine guns and pistols.

The arrests were made largely for carrying concealed weapons, Bomar said. He added that no violence had been reported since the guardsmen entered the city.

McCreedy indicated the guardsmen may remain on duty until the results of the election are made official Monday.

MEANWHILE, THE potent E. H. Crump political dynasty of Memphis went down to a stunning defeat as the final ballots were counted from yesterday's violence-punctuated elections.

Crump's choice for the state's two top nominations—for U. S. senator and governor—were soundly whipped.

Incumbent Jim McCord, backed by the Crump machine and seeking a third two-year term, carried only two districts—East and Kefauver, veteran of ten years in the lower house of Congress, carried away the nomination.

THE CRUMP CHOICE—for U. S. senator, John A. Mitchell, carried only his home district, Gordon Browning, who broke from the Crump machine, won the senatorial nomination.

Today's ambush attack was directed at a heavily armed motorcade bringing a disputed election box from nearby Copperhill to Benton. The driver of a car at which a single shot was fired was cut by glass fragments.

Milk Board Backs 1½-Cent Price Hike

HARRISBURG, Aug. 6 (AP)—A majority of the State Milk Control commission stood pat today on a plan to boost retail milk prices 1½ cents a quart despite dealer and producer pleas to hike them a cent higher.

John J. Snyder, Democrat, and Charles J. O'Loughlin, Republican, gave no signs of yielding on the price question even though Chairman H. N. Cobb, Republican, said he was ready to go along on a plan of a one and one-half cent raise now and another cent increase Oct. 1.

Cobb said he was still for a 2½ cent boost Aug. 16 as originally proposed by the commission and urged by the milk industry but added: "If the dairy industry thinks it can get along on 1½ cents until Oct. 1 with an additional one cent beyond that, I will sign such an order, once I am convinced that is what the dairy industry is agreed on."

YESTERDAY'S RITES for the 63-year-old priest, who died the past Monday, began at 8 o'clock yesterday morning with a requiem high mass for 300 children of St. Aloysius school. The Rev. David H. Leahy, acting rector, was the celebrant.

At 4 p. m. the body, in a closed coffin, was carried from the rectory to the church.

Six members of the congregation were pallbearers. They were Nick Palladino, H. Leroy Nettles, Lee J. McGee, Peter Grimm, Peter J. Lawler and Nicholas N. Szymanski.

The slow procession, which wound between two lines of St. Aloysius school children, was headed by acolytes carrying the cross and two candles.

Immediately behind them came nine priests, three of them from St. (Continued on Page Three)

It Was H-Hour for Vet Six Years Ago; Homeless Now, He'll Live in Garage

Acker... Axsmith... Barthel... Bauer... Bechtel... Bell... Breidenbach... Campitelli... Carnahan... Cimino... Collins... Deegan... De Guiseppe... Detwiler... Dilks... Dunning... Elam... Fisher... Fizz... That's a good place to stop. Fizz! Sounds like a roll call, doesn't it? Well, it is. They are some of the Pottstown area Marines who came back.

Take Fizz, for instance. William L. Fizz, Bleim's road, Ringing Rocks. He went through hundreds of roll calls during his four years' service, but there was one in particular to which he thought he might be answering an apprehensive "Here!" for the last time.

It was six years ago today, early on the morning of Aug. 7, 1942. Fizz was in the Eighth Marine Regiment, attached to the First Marine Division.

He was on a boat with a lot of buddies and they were all a little nervous. Over the ship's rail and not so far across the foreboding tropical waters was Guadalcanal—the objective!

H-Hour found them scrambling on the sands. Fizz lost five buddies that first day. A machine gun slug ripped a gash across his own chest but he came out all right.

After that it was off-and-on treacherous scrapping for three months, crawling through undergrowth, living in foxhole apartments.

AFTER SIX YEARS, what does Fizz look forward to today? Well, in a few weeks he plans to move into a one-stall garage, and at about the same time he and his wife, Bonnie, expect an addition to the family.

That makes Fizz look pretty lucky, doesn't it? The veterans' housing shortage in Pottstown doesn't bother him. No sir... he has a GARAGE to move into.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Fizz, 244 Walnut street, this Marine vet has attempted to buck the scarcity of housing for a long time. He has lived in a garage (and worse things) before, so his next location will be nothing new.

Deciding to brave the elements and shortages for which the return to civilian life has been notorious, Fizz got married about 13 months ago.

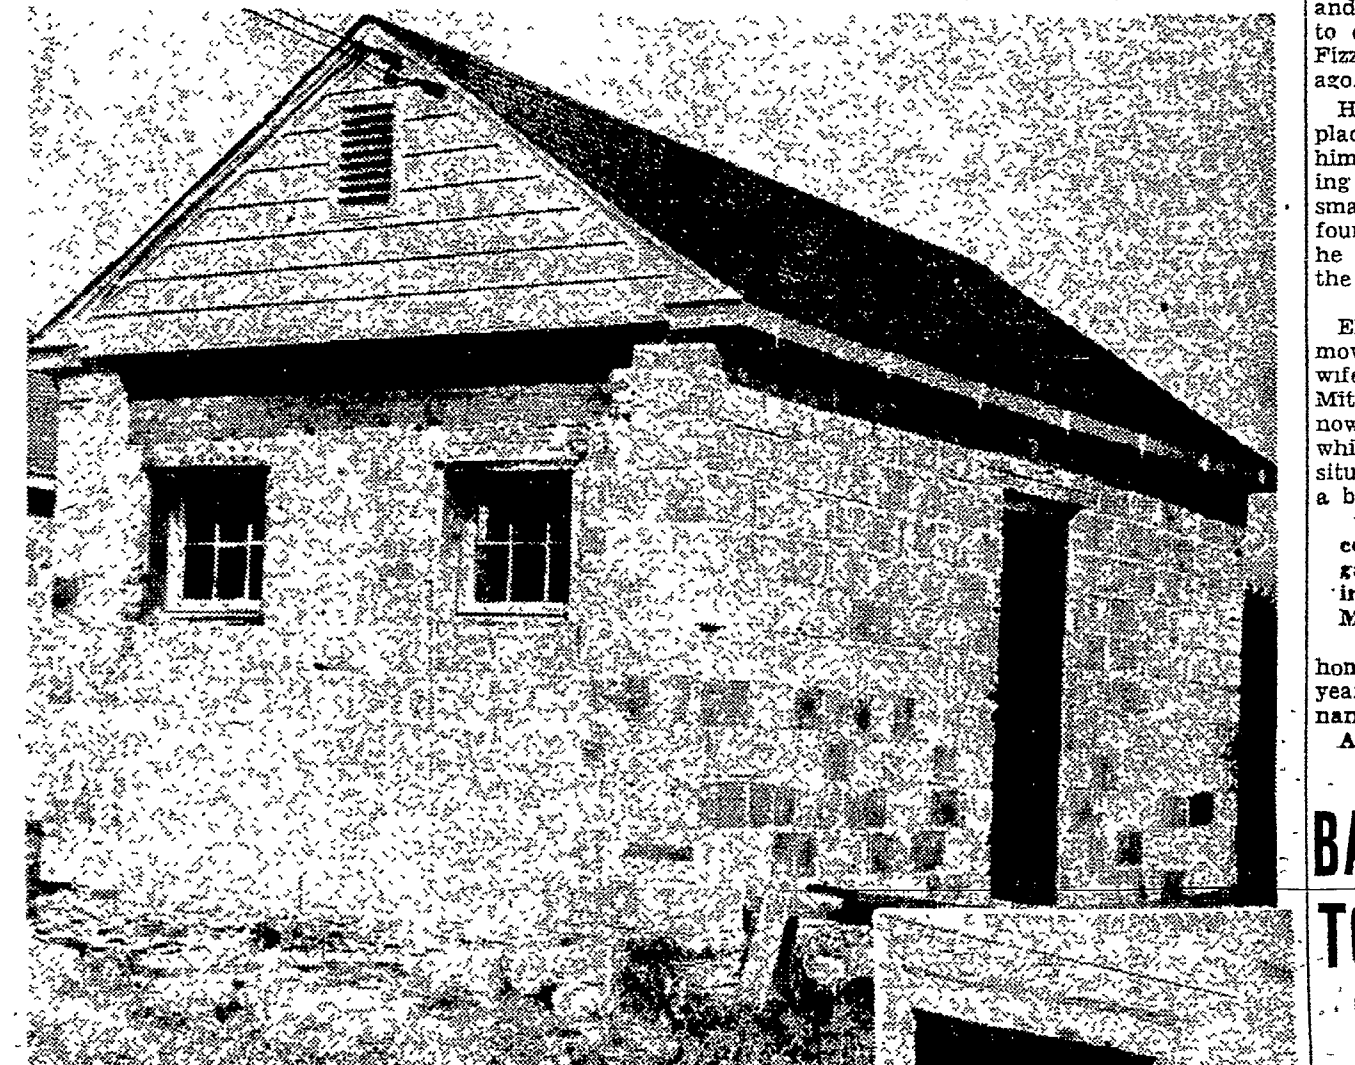

He combed the borough for a place to live which wouldn't cost him a fortune, or necessitate signing his life away. Finally he ran smack into amazing success! He found an empty garage, stall! So, he and his bride moved into it at the rear of 344 Jefferson street.

EIGHT MONTHS AGO the couple moved again to the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitch, Bleim's road, where they are now situated. The second garage, which they hoped to occupy soon, is situated on Mitch's property about a block and a half from the home.

Fizz, his wife and his forthcoming child will reside in the garage until he and his father-in-law build a home, also on Mitch's property.

The veteran likes to think his home will be finished "in about a year, but that will depend on finances and getting materials."

At Guadalcanal, Fizz, along with (Continued on Page Three)

It's a one-stall "mansion" for William L. Fizz, ex-Marine and Guadalcanal veteran and his wife, Bonnie. They occupy it in the near future. The garage, situated on property of Fizz's father-in-law, Joseph Mitch, Bleim's road, Ringing Rocks, will be the second in which the couple has lived within a year. At right, Fizz carries his wife over the threshold of the "only place I could find."

Hundreds Pay Respects At Rev. McCook's Bier

By HARRY TOLAND
(Mercury Staff Writer)

The real funeral rites for the Rev. William H. McCook, rector of St. Aloysius Catholic church, were held yesterday and early this morning.

Today funeral requiem masses will be sung and the body will be buried near his birthplace.

But yesterday and early today members of his parish, whose souls he guided for the past five years, in their hearts and prayers, said goodbye.

Dressed in Sunday best, in sports shirts, women in their finest hats, girls with handkerchiefs on their heads, policemen in uniform, priests and men off late shifts in work clothes—all filed past the open bier.

There were children in arms and men too old to genuflect before going into the church pews.

One by one they walked slowly down the middle aisle of the fully-lighted church, up the six steps of the platform where the open casket rested, and down the other side.

They either stayed on to sing rosaries, recite prayers and toll their beads, or marched solemnly faced out of the church. Many dabbed their eyes with damp handkerchiefs.

CRASH INJURES 3 MEN ON WAY TO WORK HERE

Firestone Workers From Reading Hurt; Police Search for Other Car

Three Reading Firestone workers, one in serious condition, were rushed to Pottstown hospital by Good Will ambulance last night after their car swerved off Route 422 to avoid a direct crash with another vehicle.

Stanley Pipala, about 34, received a punctured lung, four rib fractures on the right side, and scalp lacerations.

His companions escaped with brush burns, minor cuts, and abrasions of the knees and arms. They were Frank Koleczek, 24, driver and owner of the car, and Anthony F. Dziamba, 24.

Government Says Prices To Increase More in 1948

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Retail food prices are likely to go still higher during the next few months, the Agriculture department said today.

Meats and other livestock products will lead the advance.

A department report on the national food situation said two factors appear likely to push prices higher:

1. Record consumer buying power.
2. A decline in the output of meats and other livestock products.

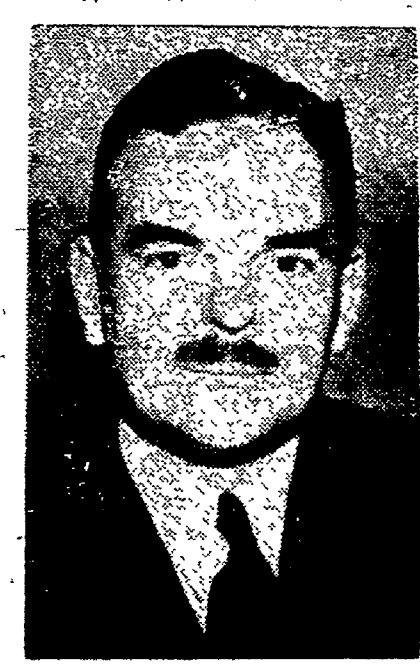

Because of the rising prices and relative scarcity of some items, the amount of food consumed by the average person during the remainder of the year is expected to be slightly below levels of the past two years. Nevertheless, the amount will be high compared with pre-war averages, when there was less buying power.

The department said the late summer and fall should bring, in comparison with recent months, larger supplies of chicken, turkey, fresh fruits and vegetables, sweet potatoes, dry beans and peas, and rice.

But supplies of meat (until October), eggs, and dairy products are expected to be somewhat smaller. Meats should become a little more plentiful in October. Marketings of livestock began to increase at that time of year.

The department said recently brightened prospects for 1948 production of crops will not materially affect the level of food consumption this year. But the outlook for next year is improved.

Administrator Denies Charges Brought by Ex-Education Head

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing, on the griddle for his dealings with a cook and a commissioner, today:

1. Said former Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker used such poor judgment he had planned to fire him. But, said Ewing, he "beat me to the gun" by resigning.
2. Flatly denied Studebaker's charges accusing Ewing of poor administration and of suppressing office of education attacks against Communism.
3. Acknowledged that he had used a government hospital cook to prepare meals at the FSA. But, he explained, the Budget bureau had assured him the procedure was proper and added it will continue.

His blast against Studebaker followed a letter from Studebaker released to newspapers the past Sunday, accusing Ewing of interfering with the office of education program for promoting democracy in schools.

BUDENZ ADMITS WORKING FOR SECRET POLICE

Tells Hawaiian Probers He Served Three Years With Red Unit in U. S.

HONOLULU, Aug. 6 (AP)—Louis Budenz, former Communist, testified today he worked for three years with Soviet secret police in the United States and helped establish a "connection" for Russian espionage on the American military potential in 1943.

Budenz told the Hawaii school board he worked with Soviet secret police in connection with the assassination of Leon Trotsky in Mexico in 1940.

Budenz, now a faculty member of Fordham university, New York, but formerly managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker, is a witness under oath in a hearing on suspension of two Hawaiian educators accused of being Communists.

He testified for four hours yesterday on asserted inner workings of the Communist party without referring to the two teachers, Dr. and Mrs. John E. Reinecke. The hearing is to determine whether their suspension the past November shall be made permanent.

HIS STATEMENTS on espionage came today on cross examination by Richard Gladstein, counsel for the Reinecks.

Budenz said he made his espionage connections in the United States on instructions from the late Jacob Golos, whom he identified as chairman of the American Communist party's control committee.

His statements were in answers to Gladstein's question whether Budenz ever had committed a crime against the United States government.

"I have," said Budenz. He added, however, he never had committed any act of violence or sabotage against the United States government and did not know of any Communist who had.

Gladstein did not pursue the reference to the Trotsky assassination but asked, "did you reach the conclusion the Communist party advocated the overthrow by violence of the United States government?"

"Yes," Budenz replied, adding that the primary aim of the party was "overthrow of the United States government by force."

and Cooper also has favored a change.

Fifth member of the judiciary subcommittee which handles immigration legislation is Senator McCarran. (D-Nev.) who is in Reno.

Chairman Revercomb said McCarran had telegraphed him from Reno saying he was opposed to changes in the law.

THOSE PRESENT today were Revercomb, Donnell (R-Mo), Cooper (R-Ky), and McGrath (D-Ri). It was not reported how they voted, but it is known that McGrath has sponsored a bill to change the law.

YOUTH, 19, HELD IN SLAYING OF BISHOP'S WARD

Frederick Pike Charged With Murder; Enters Plea of Innocent in Killing

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 6 (AP)—A 19-year-old boy was held without bail on a charge of murder today after police arrested him as the gunman who shot and hacked to death a 17-year-old boy and then narrowly missed killing a Protestant Episcopal bishop who once befriended him.

Frederick S. Pike showed no emotion as he pleaded innocent in Clinton district court to the brutal slaying of Paul Zayka, a ward for 10 years of Massachusetts suffragan Bishop Raymond A. Heron.

Inspector Anthony S. Lacaire said Pike was surprised by Zayka in the Bishop's farm home. After a wild struggle which splattered blood about the rooms Zayka died from three bullet wounds and two axe blows, Lacaire said.

AFTER THAT, Lacaire said, the young gunman waited for an hour and a half until Bishop Heron came home.

Pike narrowly missed the bishop with two shots and then ordered him to the house, Lacaire said.

The bishop immediately recognized Pike, whom he had once helped, the inspector said, and he quoted this talk between them: "Paul's dead," the gunman answered. "You'll find him at the bottom of the cellar stairs. Give me your money and the keys to your car or you'll get what he got. One more killing won't make much difference."

Government of Greek Communist Rebels Reported to Have Fled to Albanian Safety

MARKOS VAFIADES

ATHENS, Aug. 6 (AP)—The "provisional government" of Markos Vafiades was reported to have fled into Albania today as Greek troops laid a 30-mile semi-circle of fire around the last bit of territory held by Communist rebels.

Press dispatches said the guerrillas mounted seven fierce counterattacks on the east side of the perimeter to hold open their last remaining supply route to Albania along the Aliakmon river through Slimititsa. The counterattacks against government positions on captured Amouda ridge east of the route were repulsed, a government communique said.

Press reports said the guerrilla "government" then crossed the border at Slimititsa.

Reports from the front said national forces were relentlessly pursuing the rebels, whose retreating columns were being machine-gunned from the air as the American-advised troops drove to finish the two-year civil war.

The Greek general staff reported 45 guerrilla dead were counted at Stano where 110 rebels surrendered. The army captured enough armament and weapons to equip two battalions. It also took 200,000 rounds of ammunition.

Justice Orders Baby's Release From Hospital

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—A State Supreme court justice today ordered release of an eight-week-old baby from a hospital which, the infant's mother claimed, refused to let the child go because of an unpaid hospital bill.

Justice William F. Santry issued a writ of habeas corpus directing Wilson Memorial hospital in nearby Johnson City in Southern New York to release the son of Mrs. William Engle.

Mrs. Engle claimed hospital authorities refused to let her take the baby home yesterday unless she signed a note or made arrangements to pay a $198 hospital bill for care of the child.

The child was released to Mrs. Engle's attorney by hospital administrator Robert L. Eckelberger, who had been served with the writ.

Coal Association May Drop Charges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The failure-to-bargain charge filed by the Southern Coal Producers association against John L. Lewis miners may be dropped.

That is, if the association succeeds in an effort to get a signed agreement from Lewis on the association's future bargaining status.

Lewis refused to deal with the association's president, Joseph A. Moody, in the recent coal negotiations. So Moody filed the charges with the NLRB which got a court injunction compelling Lewis to bargain with Moody.

The NLRB charges still are pending. However, NLRB's hearing on them has been postponed from next Tuesday to Oct. 12 at the union's request.

Committee Postpones Session to Open Bids

A meeting of borough council's water committee, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock last night, has been postponed until Aug. 27.

Committee members had expected to open bids for a new intake at the borough water company's pumping station, Bramcote, but potential bidders asked for an extension.

They cited the difficulty of securing certain parts and of determining prices.

Also on Aug. 27, the committee will open bids for three transformers at the new sub-station at the pumping station.

PUC regulations require that the borough build its own sub-station there to replace one operated by the Philadelphia Electric company. Erection of the unit will result in lower rates.

to buy them early on a lay-away plan. To illustrate the need for action, he pointed out that his store, large as it is, received a quota of only two foot pedal cars to supply the Christmas demand.

He explained that the rise of $9 per ton in steel prices and a strike in one of the largest toy producing plants were responsible for the shortage in good steel toys.

FOR THE OLDER children, there will be a good supply of dolls, sleds, roller skates and scooters. In addition, real state blackboards will be on the market again for the first time in many years, Herbst added.

There is a possibility that good construction sets will appear in greater numbers this year, but the electric and wind-up train supply is still in doubt. No word has been received from the manufacturer on these items as yet.

Many old toys have been improved, Herbst went on to say. More dolls this year will have plastic heads to prevent breakage, while games such as the doctor and chess sets will have more and better parts.

The bulb replacement problem, which kept many Christmas trees dark last year, is expected to be alleviated this December. Most stores are receiving a greater stock of individual Christmas tree lights to replace those which have been burned out.

Last year, the shortage was so acute, dealers were receiving as much as 50 cents per bulb for their limited stock.

study to standardize building codes and measurements, and would guarantee a return of 2% percent on equity investments in rental properties.

The McCarthy bill also would increase by 25 percent the secondary market for all veterans' guaranteed and FHA-insured loans made after April 30, 1948, and make an additional $800,000,000 available for loans on rental housing.

The anti-inflation bill next on the Senate books calls for curbs on installment buying.

PRIEST'S RITES —

Aloysius rectory, chanting two traditional funeral hymns, the Miserere and the De Profundis. The Rev. Leahy led the ceremony. The other St. Aloysius priests were the Revs. John Campbell and George Hiller.

As the body reached the door of the church, the priests began the solemn Subvenite, "Come to his assistance all ye saints of God . . ."

Then the undertakers lifted the austere coffin, draped in black, up to the platform, also fringed with black cloth.

The funeral director and his assistants opened the casket to reveal half the body, richly clothed in purple chasuble under a white alb.

In the dead priest's hands was the chalice with which he so often had administered Holy Communion. Covering the chalice was his patent for consecrated wafers.

ACCORDING to request, the church had no flowers. The only changes from normal appearance were margins of black cloth around the altar niche and the front door.

After the body had been laid in state, a guard of four men took up the watch. It will remain at the corners of the platform, changing every hour, until 10 o'clock this morning.

The thousands which were to view the body began moving past. Until after 9 o'clock, at least 150 persons were in the church at all times, although the flow in and out of the church was constant.

The church was open all night to allow late workers an opportunity to view the body.

AT 4:30 O'CLOCK, the children of the church came in a body and sang their rosaries and said their prayers for the departed pastor.

Then, beginning at 7:30 o'clock at half hour intervals for two hours, church organizations followed suit.

As visitors came and went, their repeated, "Hail Mary's," echoed softly throughout the big church—"Hail Mary, mother of God, pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death, Amen."

The groups who came en masse were the Altar and Rosary society, the Blessed Virgin Mary sodality, Ladies auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Knights of Columbus and its auxiliary.

This morning at 10 o'clock, the Divine Office will be sung by all the clergy present and at 10:30 o'clock a high requiem mass will be sung.

Three cousins of the Rev. McCook will officiate. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Cornelius Brennan, celebrant, the Rt. Rev. Joseph Madden, deacon, and the Rev. Ralph O'Brien, sub-deacon will conduct the rites.

Among the visiting clergy will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Cletus J. Benjamin, personal representative of Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia.

Iron Worker Is Given Life Term in Oaks Slaying

NORRISTOWN, Aug. 6.—Andro Broecky, 52-year-old Phoenixville iron worker, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the murder of an older man with a pick handle during an argument over a woman.

Judge George C. Corson imposed sentence in Montgomery County court after Broecky's plea for a new trial had been dismissed.

"I didn't mean to kill him, judge," Broecky cried as sentence was pronounced. "John scared me and I guess I lost my senses."

"John" was Jahan Jackanyics, 65, of Oaks, the man he was accused of murdering. A jury found Broecky guilty the past October.

most other vets, had his ideas about what he was fighting for. In the final analysis, after the humor was brushed aside, the answer was: "For rights and freedom."

Now that Fizz has had a chance to look back over the years and take stock of the once-promising post-war era, he's not so sure just what he did fight for.

"We were everything during the war," Fizz asserted, "but when we got back it was another story. Right now, the veteran isn't anything. I don't mean we're supposed to be catered to. It's just that our status is worse than before the war."

About the five friends he lost the first day, Fizz said: "They don't have to worry about housing, and the people they fought for don't want to be bothered worrying about it."

FIZZ WAS discharged in July, 1948. He attended Pottstown High school until he enlisted in the Marine corps. Recently he began a new night driving job for a borough baking company.

There are about 100 ex-Marines in the Pottstown vicinity. There are many more ex-sailors and ex-soldiers. Quite a few have found comfortable niches in which to fit since their return.

The unfortunate ones remaining, however, are stymied with living conditions. Those married are living with relatives and those who want to marry hesitate because of the lack of housing.

3500 Persons Drowned By Flood in China

NANKING, Aug. 6 (P)—Official Chinese government reports today said 3500 persons were drowned and 400,000 made homeless by the flooding Yellow river in northern Nonan Province.

Such preliminary report frequently exaggerate casualties but the water conservancy ministry said officials on the spot described the flood as "the worst in a hundred years."

will fight the winner among the four companies, was not worrying last night, either. Its team averages 196 pounds.

The three beefs who were victorious over the Good Will Fire company in the last fight are Robert Scheidt, Robert Clouser and Harry Chrusch.

Meanwhile, the last team to report a lineup, the West End Fire company, came up with the beefiest triple of them all. Luther "Big Buck" Weaver, his son, George, and Dominick Paolucci average 218 pounds.

ALL TEAMS were calm about substitutes. As Welsh put it, "We can pick substitutes anytime. All our men are good enough to be substitutes."

To the soaking winners of battle will go a foot-high trophy presented by the Optimist club. It is a bronze-winged victory set on a plastic base.

The teams, which will include those mentioned and one from the Philadelphia Steam Fire Engine company, will try to knock each other out of flat-bottomed boats chained 50 feet apart in the creek. The fire companies will stage two eliminations before facing the policemen.

Navy Recruiting Office Makes Schedule Change

After today, the U. S. Navy recruiting office in the YMCA will be open on Wednesday only, it was announced yesterday by Chief Petty Officer Charles Ackerman.

Since March, the station has been open daily from 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. Those hours will be maintained Wednesday.

Ackerman has been transferred temporarily to Reading where he will assist in the Navy's exhibit in the Reading Bicentennial celebration.

He will return here for recruiting service each Wednesday.

House Hearing Ends On Lens Plant Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (P)—A House labor subcommittee today wound up a two-day hearing into the three-month strike of United Electrical Workers (CIO) at the Univis Lens company plant in Dayton, Ohio.

In the two days, the committee took testimony principally on disorders and violence on the picket lines outside the plant. Witnesses included three union representatives, a woman striker and two police officers.

Girl Injured as Auto Rams Into Parked Car

A ten-year-old girl's nose was badly bruised and two cars were slightly damaged late last night in an accident near the corner of Farmington avenue and East street.

Graville Moyer, 204 South Franklin street, told Patrolman Irvin Frederick at borough hall that he was turning from Farmington avenue into East street when his foot slipped from the brake to the accelerator and he rammed a parked car.

With him in the car was Joyce Swinehart, 10, of 204 South Franklin street, who bruised her nose badly when she was thrown into the windshield. Memorial hospital attendants said the nose was not broken.

Moyer said he did not know the name of the owner of the parked car but spoke to him and promised to settle later.

witness. The point of contact was not disclosed.

SENATE INVESTIGATORS, who have been conducting a parallel inquiry into the alleged Red spy ring, shut down their hearings, too, after a brief morning session. Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) complained that an order from President Truman has caused the withholding of loyalty files they need to check on charges of Communist infiltration into the government.

McDowell first told the un-American activities committee about uranium shipments yesterday, saying that a total of 1300 pounds of compounds of the radio-active element had been shipped to the Soviets in 1943.

He more than doubled those figures today in his speech to the House.

In addition to the 1300 pounds, he said, 200 pounds of uranium oxide and 220 pounds of uranium nitrate, furnished by the S. W. Shattuck Chemical company of Denver, were shipped by air from Great Falls, Mont., to Moscow.

Also, McDowell reported, 500 pounds of uranium nitrate and 500 pounds of black uranium oxide were furnished by the Canadian Radium and Uranium corporation, transported to Great Falls, and sent from there to Moscow.

South Moser road and South Hanover streets crossings.

At the July council session, the law-makers turned down a railroad offer to install warning signals at Moser road in return for permission to place automatic gates at the Hanover street crossing, in spite of the police committee's recommendation that the offer be accepted.

LEON C. MacMULLEN, chairman of the citizens' airport committee, said last night he would make a report on the progress of the current fund-raising drive for the Pottstown Municipal airport.

His group is awaiting final reports this weekend.

The past July 1, W. Harvey Diener, 383 North Charlotte street, and Jay W. Hazlett, of Limerick, volunteered to head a drive to complete the borough's share of funds necessary to develop the borough-owned airfield in Stowe.

Federal and State governments have pledged $60,000, to be paid as soon as the borough's drive is completed successfully.

Two local concerns were notified yesterday by the State Sanitary Water board to halt stream pollution and to submit plans for waste treatment plant.

They were the Pottstown branch of the Philadelphia Dairy Products company, and the Lawrence L. Major dairy, Limerick.

Other nearby industries sent notices as part of the State's clean stream drive were the Frank R. Conner dairy, Perkaskie; the Phoenix Iron company, Phoenixville, and the Willis C. Nice slaughterhouse, Franconia township.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1948

Experience is the best schoolmaster,
—only the school-fee is heavy.
—Carlyle.

Fall's Outrider

TODAY'S August 7. Midsummer. Along the garden wall the flowers are gaudy bright.
The tree foliage is at its thickest. But the temperature for a week seldom has topped 70 degrees. Amidst all the green, the first sumo leaves have turned red — a bitter-
sweet reminder that season presses on season,
that beauty indeed is fleeting, that time and
life are short.

The Corn Is Sweet

THIS is the time of the year when face-
smearing, while eating, is popular, and for a good reason. It is sweet corn eating time
and corn-on-the-cob just can't be consumed,
and rightly enjoyed, without some facial evidence that progress is being made in separating the kernels of corn from the cob.

From ear to ear, and from chin to fore-
head, is an area that may be corn-splattered
or smeared. Who cares? Corn is meant to be enjoyed and there is no best way, no social
way, or even a dainty way.

High-falutin' rules have their place, no
doubt, in some eating, but long steaming hot ears of corn, well buttered and salted, don't call for rules. Elbows on table, head leaning well forward, a good grasp on both ends of the corn, and there's the setting. It's time to "chomp off" two, three or four rows and what matters if the flecks of corn settle on chin
and cheeks, or all over the face. Good eating transcends these minor details.

It's corn eating time and it must be fresh,
whether it be Shoe Peg, Golden Bantam, Red Rose, White Pearl, Country Gentleman, Snow-
ball or any of the many, many names, or colloquialisms, designated to the sweet-tasting
ears of corn.

A Touch of Larceny

THERE is a touch of larceny in everybody
nowadays. A University of Chicago
sociologist, Prof. Joseph Lohman, has arrived scientifically at this conclusion which many people had already reached by means of just sticking around.

Numerous items that are in short supply
today are obtainable by bribing someone into extorting you into paying several times what they are worth.

A builder who wants to put up a few houses,
for sale, may have to build some first for rent
to sons-in-law, aunts and old family retainers
of suppliers, before he can get the materials.
Twenty-five hundred dollars is an ordinary
price for a brand-new used car.

Tenants have given landlords as much as a year's rent in advance, or $3000 in cash, or
a complete heating system, in exchange for
the privilege of renting a small apartment for
a big price.

Owners of housing and owners of automobiles have in many cases refused to do business with anyone except each other.

Honesty continues to be practiced widely,
but seems to flourish best in goods whose supplies are ample. Even there, it has come to be a rule of thumb in 1948 that anything
priced at less than twice what it's worth is a bargain.

In addition to the touch of larceny which Prof. Lohman accurately notes, we detect a touch of justice in a lot of people nowadays.
They have reservations about the postwar profiteer, and about the legislator who is making it possible for him to flourish. They would like to see both get what is coming to them, and if possible, to help it along.
Something, as the Mikado put it, slow and lingering, with a touch of boiling oil. Coming under the head of fair exchange, it will be no larceny.

Truman and Prices

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, whose economic
panaceas always have more relation to November than to the present, proposed a law to roll prices on cost-of-living items back to levels of November, 1947.

It is interesting to note that on Nov. 15,
1947, wheat for December delivery was $3 a bushel, corn was $2.40 and oats $1.16. This week, the equivalent prices were $2.24, $1.64
and $1.72—something more than 25 percent below Mr. Truman's dream month.

The drop resulted from no political magic,
but from the fact that the industry of man
and the beneficence of heaven gave us bumper crops this year. Housewives can expect sugar
prices to stop climbing, because the government has generously decided to permit Cuba
to send us more of the large crop.

We hope Mr. Truman will note these facts
and not offer us a roll-up to all prices of 1947.

Forced Out So Club Can Build . . . Missing Light

It's a Tent—Or Reprieve

To the Editor: Talk about the housing
shortage and people living in tents, it looks like the public will find some more people living in tents soon. Three buildings, 40, 42, and 44 High street, are to be torn down to make way for a club
which has purchased the property.

I am one of the tenants who received 60 days notice to vacate. With no homes
to rent, what will six families do?

It certainly did give us a shock. I myself just about dropped dead when the notice was served on me. It would mean
the world to us down here if the club
would open its heart and tell us they have changed their plans and will let us stay
here at least until the housing shortage
is taken care of.

Another thing, why isn't something
done about some of these lonely women
living in large homes all by themselves.
They could make those homes into apartments and still live comfortably. Walk down High street from Manatawny street
to The Hill school and see how many buildings there are that could be made into apartments.

I think it is a shame that the poorer class has no chance. There seems to be no place today for good, honest people
who want to live right and pay their way
as they go.

Leaves Sewer Hole Unguarded

To the Editor: It seems that some lamebrains will do anything. Someone stooped so low as to steal lanterns from
in front of a sewer hole.

It may be the cause of a broken back
to someone, or a cracked-up car, not to mention causing me money for damages.

If the thief wanted a lantern for a reason, he could have asked for it—I am sure it would have been loaned gladly.

To the person who stole it, it won't do much good if he intends to use it for the same purpose I did, for it is marked and I'll be riding around looking for it at night.

He might just as well return it in the few hours of the morning, because then I'll be in bed, like all people should be
at that time, unless they are working.

WASHINGTON

Electoral College Powers May Be Fully Invoked

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 — Many readers have asked for details on the composition and operations of the presidential electoral college, which has the final and authoritative say on who shall be the President of the United States.

Curiosity about the electoral college
powers is especially timely now, because anti-Truman southerners in Alabama and Mississippi, and possibly in other states,
may use or abuse the ancient and creak-
ing vote-toting machinery to rob President Truman of their electoral ballot,
even though he may command a popular
majority in every state in the Deep South.

NUMBER: First, as to the number of
electoral college members to which each state is entitled.

Each commonwealth has as many electoral college votes as the total of its representation in the House and Senate. New York, for instance, has 45 members of the House and two men in the Senate.

It is for this reason that the major
parties, when advisable and politically
practicable, try to nominate for President
a New York Governor, Senator or some outstanding figure from that electorally
important area.

ELECTORS: The average voter does
not realize it, but he will not sign his name for Dewey, Truman, Wallace, Norman Thomas or other also-rans.

He will be voting for the electors
of the Democratic, Republican, Socialist and Wallace tickets. These electors, according to the Constitution, may be chosen in accord with
the decision of each State Legislature.

As a rule, these purely honorary and
temporary appointments are given to "fat
cats" who have kicked in with heavy contributions to the party treasury.

CHOICE: These electoral collegiates
get together, usually at their respective
state capitals, after the November election. They write down, certify and mail
the vote of their states to the President of the Senate, who is normally the Vice-President, but in this instance happens to be Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan.

On Jan. 6, two weeks before the inauguration of the next President, and
three days after Congress has convened,
the President of the Senate opens before
a joint session of Congress the certificates
which he has received from the electoral college members of the 48 states.

After House Parliamentarian "Lou" Descher and his statistical aides have compiled the figures, the President of the Senate then declares that the man having 266 or more electoral college votes is the people's choice for the White House.

VOTE: Here is the political catch,
however, which anti-Truman southerners
hope to use to the President's electoral college disadvantage.

Due to the wealthy founding fathers'
dread of mobocracy, or, if you please,
democracy, they framed the Constitution
so that the electoral college members,
most of whom are profit-sharing partners
in our economic setup, may disregard the
popular majority of their states, and vote
for whoever they please.

If several southern states break away
from President Truman, as they have the right to do under electoral college vagar-
ies, it will mean almost certain defeat
for the man in the White House.

I wondered, however, as I read about

Put Vets on Draft Board

To the Editor: Now that the Pottstown
draft board is going to open up shop again,
it's a good time to inject some new blood
into the board. Why let some old duffers serve who were too old for service in the Spanish-American war and the closest
they got to khaki was when they stood
on the curb during Fourth of July parades?

I think that one or two World War II
veterans on the board would give the
others a little perspective on the problems
of a draftee. And, if this draft business is going on and on, it's an advantage to get a few members of the board
who won't collapse from old age in a year
or two.

Furthermore, the GIs won the war.
Give them an active hand in keeping the peace.

Dogs on Nocturnal Prowl

To the Editor: It seems to be a practice with some dog owners in the Eighth
ward to turn their dogs loose at night
when there's little danger that they'll
be picked up by police.

The results of this practice was annoyingly evident to me the other morning when, on my way to work, almost
all of the garbage cans were upset, Garbage was strewn over sidewalks and lawns. The stray dogs had been foraging,
there was no doubt about it.

This is a warning to those dog owners
who have no respect for others that if I catch one of their animals upsetting my garbage can, its dead body will be
inside awaiting the garbage collectors
to haul it away.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

I WISH all parents could realize that
whooping cough is a real killer in babies
under one year of age. Even in older children there is danger of such complications as pneumonia, but the very lives
of little babies who contract this disease
are endangered unless they have the very best treatment. With the right treatment, the severity of the symptoms may be lessened, the course of the disease
shortened and complications prevented.

Nearly everybody is familiar with the
violent attacks of coughing and vomiting
that come with whooping cough. These seizures usually end with a whoop, caused
by a sharp drawing in of the breath following the coughing attack.

Probably the most necessary part of
the treatment of whooping cough is good and constant day-and-night nursing. An infant with whooping cough should never be left unattended, because attacks may
come on suddenly and life-saving measures may have to be employed, such as
the giving of oxygen and the sucking out of secretions from the air passages. Of course, the nurse in charge of the baby
should be familiar with these procedures.

The use of oxygen for young infants
is particularly important. It is thought that putting the infant into an oxygen
tent may relieve exhausting coughing
attacks.

The windpipe and bronchi or tubes in
the lung frequently contain thick secre-
tions and the exhausted infant is unable to cough them up. If there is any sign of blocking of the air passages, these secretions must be sucked out.

As a general rule, sedatives or quieting
cough mixtures, or mixtures which stimulate the formation of secretions, do little good.

Sulfadiazine is at times effective in
the treatment of this disorder.

The baby with whooping cough should
be fed frequently, but should be given
only small amounts of food at each feeding.

Fluids may be given by injection into
a vein or under the skin, particularly if
the baby shows signs of a great loss of fluid from the body.

If there is evidence of blocking of the
air passages, sucking out of the secre-
tions should be done before the feedings
are given. The infant should be fed only while lying in the nurse's arms.

Oh, That Female Chatter!

To the Editor: Maybe more folks
make phone calls when it rains, like you told about yesterday. But, brother, on my party line, people just don't have anything else to do but yakity-yakity-yak
all day long.

Why don't some of these idle middle-
aged haridians around Pottstown get off
their useless rear ends and do something
besides gossip on the phone once in a while?

We've got housing shortages, automobile shortages and shortages of about anything else you can mention, but believe you me, the only thing on God's
green earth that there's really a shortage
of is quiet women!

Speed Demons Annoy Him

To the Editor: The Colonel ("Belongs

5) doesn't like our Sunday drivers!

We don't like speeddemons like you either, Colonel.

The other day I was hitting 25 miles
an hour along King street when some
over-anxious driver leaned on his horn.
Traffic was coming in the other direction
and he couldn't pass. And was he burned up!

It might have been you, Colonel. I don't know. He certainly was of your race horse type. No, fortunately, he probably wasn't one of the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Keep moving at your accustomed pace,
Colonel. And don't stop until you get back to the South.

that industry as well as labor is getting
behind the Pottstown Community camp

I'm convinced that this is one of the most worthwhile projects undertaken in Pottstown in recent years. The benefits
received by the children can't be measured
in dollars and cents.

DOG DAYS!

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

There's Plenty of Gas... So Take Those Snaps...

GOOD NEWS — Best news to vacationers
coming out of Washington for months
is that we'll be able to skin through the Summer driving season without a gasoline pinch. We approach Labor Day, which marks the end of peak demand, with storage stocks still close to 100 million
barrels, "Business Week" says in its current issue. "Production beyond the highest hopes has done it," says the publication. "Gasoline output now is a sensational 765 million gallons a week. Such stocks, before the war, would have looked suspiciously like a surplus. Nowadays,
they are no more than comfortable." So crank up the Chadwick and go to mountains and seaside!

SPEAKING OF VACATIONS, just
think how soon it'll be until you hear:
"Here's Junior just before he sat on a hornet at the last last Summer." All next Winter, America's number one mania will be finding expression in happy statements like that. No nation on earth is quite so snapshot
happy as ours. As is always the case,
somebody is responsible for this form
of vacation madness. Whether villain
or hero, several people seem to have
the finger pointing at them . . .

LOUIS JACQUES Mande Daguerre invented the first successful photographic process, in 1839. But a lot of others both before and after did mental
gyrations to give us our present day
"look-at-the-sun-and-smile" point of development. For example, the principle of the camera was understood by Aristotle, 2298 years ago. The equally remarkable Leonardo da Vinci, who understood practically everything, wrote a piece about how a camera would work. Those early lads lacked just one small item for making snapshots: a national pastime—that was film! Enter here Daguerre with his daguerrotype camera, followed by the tintype and a lot of uncomfortable grandparents. At that point the candid camera
enthusiast came equipped with a wheel
barrow to carry his stuff . . .

THAT BRINGS us to a man named George Eastman, who really gave the world the snapshot fiend, in 1888. He invented a paper-backed, roll film and
a small, simple and inexpensive camera. That was the beginning of the end, brother! Mr. Eastman's snowball was rolling! Today, a film shortage would be somewhat of a national catastrophe, although there is no
substantiation of the rumor that the Yellowstone Park Bears are to be equipped with cameras in an eye-for-
an-eye move against vacationers!

SATURDAY SNICKER — A couple of mosquitoes were attending a convention of insects and an old timer was sitting around reminiscing with a modern
one. The old timer sighed:

"Things have changed a lot since my
day. When I was a boy you could only bite a girl on the hands or the face, but
look at the opportunities you young chaps
have today!"

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

ZOLA T., 22, is an expectant mother.
"Dr. Crane, Harry and I have been married for nearly a year," she began.
"But I am beginning to wonder if he isn't what you describe as emotionally
immature."

"He seems to lack spunk. He takes his orders from his mother. The only time I ever knew him to act on his own judgment was when he persuaded me to run away and get married."

He later explained that act by saying
he was afraid she would never permit it
if she learned about our plans beforehand.

"He cannot hold a job, although he
is good looking and strong physically.
Three weeks after our marriage he told
me he didn't like his work."

"He stayed away from the job for two days. I almost persuaded him to return
to it, but he was then afraid to go back.
I guess he feared that his boss would
bawl him out."

"HE AGREED to join my church, but
his mother learned about his plans, and made him refuse. Twice he has run away to mamma since our marriage."
"I have been able to accept his excuses
heretofore, but now we are going to have a baby. If he has been afraid to face
the issues of the past, won't he run away
from this greater responsibility?"

"How will he act when I have to quit
my job as a stenographer and tell his mother we are going to have a child?
He has leaned on me all along, but I am
reaching the place where I must lean
upon somebody else."

"He doesn't even have a job at present. And he doesn't seem to worry much on that score. His primary concern seems to be that his mother will think."

"Dr. Crane, is he emotionally immature?" Do you think he will always be such a coward?"

One reason why wives make such good
mothers is the fact that they have so much practice dealing with their juvenile husbands. Zola has married a "mamma's boy."

It is always possible for a man to do
a remarkable right-about-face, but it is often very improbable in such cases as Harry. Especially is that true when the husband does not come to the specialist
for help.

But it is far more difficult to alter
his personality against his will. Zola's
husband must be coaxed, just like a child,
into doing something under his own
power.

His ego must then be inflated because of this instance where he has acted independent of his mother.

If he thus learns to obtain enough
praise and favors for using his own initiative, he can tactfully be taught to become self-reliant. Such a new set of habits will require months and even years
to develop, but it is possible for an intelligent wife to remodel her husband in this manner.</

David D. Koch, 76, Casket Firm Worker For 20 Years, Dies

David D. Koch, 76, 35 North Reading avenue, Boyertown, an employee of the Boyertown Burial Casket company for the past 20 years, died in the Memorial hospital, Pottstown, at 11:45 o'clock yesterday morning.

He had been a patient there since the past July 30.

Mr. Koch had spent most of his life in Boyertown, where he was active at his job until the past Spring.

He was born in Shanesville, the son of the late Samuel and Rachel (Davidheiser) Koch. His father operated a general store in that town.

Mr. Koch first went into the dry goods business with the firm of Morris Anderson, in Shanesville at first and then in Boyertown.

In 1908, WHEN THE Anderson store was destroyed by fire, Mr. Koch joined the firm of W. A. Bauer and company, also on North Reading avenue, Boyertown, where he worked as buyer and clerk until he joined the casket company to work in the lining department.

He was a member of the Christ Lutheran church, Spangville.

The church pastor, the Rev. Hobart W. Tyson, will officiate at services at 2 p. m. Tuesday from a funeral home at 124 West Philadelphia avenue, Boyertown, to be followed by interment in Oley cemetery at Spangville.

A bachelor, Mr. Koch's only survivors are a brother, Frank, of Boyertown R. 2, and several nieces and nephews.

DARE AND DOUBLE-DARE...

Little Boys sometimes fall out with their playmates and they have a childish spat. These little tiffs seldom amount to anything more than a tongue stuck out, an ugly face, and maybe a threatening gesture. The causes of these juvenile clashes are usually soon forgotten.

If grown-ups could patch up their disagreements and quarrels as easily as children can, we would have better neighborhoods, better homes, and better human relations.

And if nations could be induced to seek a peaceful settlement of international differences, instead of resorting to war, it would put an end to untold human misery and years of heart-breaking desolation.

Religion is the only influence that can turn men's minds from war and strife to the ways of peace and goodwill. By attending the services of the Church regularly, and by supporting its local, foreign mission, and world relief programs, you will make a real contribution to world peace and goodwill among men.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Parent Teacher Associations Need Men,' Says Newly-Elected Central PTA President

"Why don't more men attend Parent Teacher meetings?" That is the question that has puzzled Mr. David S. Emery, newly-elected president of the Central Parent Teacher association, for a long time. He is the first male president to serve in Pottstown for a good many years.

Mr. Emery sincerely believes that a father is just as much of a parent as the mother and as such should be found in as great a representation in the PTAs as the mothers.

But such is not so. In every PTA meeting in Pottstown will be found about 22 feminine members to each of those that are the supposed heads of the household. Mr. Emery hopes to change this picture at least in the Central PTA.

He has studied for the past two months as to what would be the best method of getting the fathers of the many students of Washington school interested in the association, and has finally come up with the idea, that the only thing that will bring them out is the same item that will hold them after they do start coming, and that is comparatively interesting programs and the bolishing of all cliques that tend to form in any club.

When Washington school opens in the Fall he and his supporting board members are prepared to start a membership drive that will enroll each parent, both father and mother, and to make each meeting so interesting and vital that the members will not dare miss thereafter.

FIRST ON THE program will be a series of parents' teas given for each of the rooms of the school, when the parents of the students will be invited to the school to become acquainted with the teacher and with each other.

A room committee of hosts and hostesses will be appointed to entertain and introduce each of the parents to each other, that no one has a "lost soul" feeling when they arrive for the monthly meetings.

Another item that Mr. Emery feels quite strongly on is that every bit of business that transpires at board meetings will also be made known at each of the regular meetings.

All of these plans were consummated at a meeting of the board at the home of Mr. Emery which was attended by the following officers and committee members: Mrs. Evelyn Bauer, vice president; Mrs. Charles Harberger, second vice president; Mrs. William Hampton, treasurer; Miss Catherine Ellenberger, secretary; Mrs. George Weber, hospital; Mrs. David Emery, membership; and Mrs. George Bushue, publicity.

Little pink and blue baskets and napkins, folded to resemble diapers, were the favors for the guests.

The door prize was won by Miss Jean Brightbill, while awards for the games played went to Mrs. Jennie Wert and Mrs. June Scram. At a late hour a buffet luncheon was served by the hostess.

Those attending included: Miss Bernice Egolf, Miss June Keller, Miss Bertha Fry, Mrs. Elizabeth Stetler, Mrs. Margaretta Stetler, Mrs. Jeanie Wert, Mrs. Helen Egolf, Mrs. Kathryn Smith, Mrs. June Scram, Mrs. Marion Shanley, Mrs. Pauline Kirlin, Mrs. Margaret Shanley, Mrs. Carolyn Fry, Mrs. Margaret Gulliver and Mrs. Leah Pettison.

'Let's Leave It To the Men'

"Let's leave it to the men," says Mrs. George Bushue, 253 Beech street, past president of the Central Parent Teachers association, as she presents Mr. David S. Emery, Gilbertsville road, with the PTA manual. Mrs. Bushue, who held the maximum term of two years, is hoping that Mr. Emery will be able to coax into the PTA more men than have been attending in past years. He is the first male president of Pottstown PTAs in a number of years.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX'S

Advice to the Lovelorn

Considering Adoption of Child

A YOUNG married woman who writes me that her doctor has told her she can never have any children, says the doctor suggested that she and her husband adopt a child.

"We don't like that idea," she writes, "because the child would not be our own and also because we would know so little about its parents."

For such reasons as these, this woman and her husband hesitate to consider an adoption. They are afraid that they might unknowingly get a child with an unfortunate background which might result in its turning out to be a problem. She wants to know what I think about this business of adopting a child.

Now in the first place, this young woman may not know it, but even if she were most eager to find a child for adoption, the chances are that she would have a very hard time getting one. The fact is, that there are far more people today who want to adopt children than there are children to go around. I know a great many instances of childless husbands and wives who are almost pathetically anxious to find a baby they can bring up as their own, and although they have gone from one adoption nursery to another, they have found so many other eager couples ahead of them that they have had to wait years before they were able to achieve their heart's desire.

ANOTHER THING my correspondent probably does not know is that while she may think it hazardous to adopt a child lest it turn out badly, those whose business it is to arrange adoptions are just as concerned lest the couple that takes the child should turn out badly. No matter how much a man and his wife may want to adopt a child, unless the adoption agency is as certain as it is humanly possible to be that they are the right kind of people, they would not be permitted to have one.

A third point is that a child's background is thoroughly investigated by the adoption nursery before it is given out for adoption, so that the people who take such a child may actually know even more about its inheritance than they would about a child of their own. There is almost certainly no more likelihood that, if wisely reared, an adopted child would develop unfortunate characteristics than there is of any other child doing so. Some of the finest families in the world have had children grow up to be sources of bitter disappointment and grief to them. A so-called "good" background does not by any means necessarily guarantee fine character.

So I think the woman whose letter I quoted need have no fears if she and her husband decided to adopt a child. The greatest problem would be to find such a child, and then to prove to those, in charge of its future that she and her husband are the kind of people to whom the child could safely be entrusted.

American Diver Wins 2d Crown; Mathias Cops Decathlon Title

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—America furnished the 1948 Olympics its best all-around athlete—decathlon winner Bob Mathias of Tulare, Calif.—today and her gifted water stars splashed to three more championships in another glorious day for the Red, White and Blue.

These triumphs, coupled with a pair of sensational successes on the part of sturdy Europeans, headlined the seventh day of this international competition, staged in a cold drizzle.

Mathias, a 17-year-old high school lad who ripples with educated muscles, wound up a rigorous two-day, ten-sport grind with 7139 points.

He started early in the morning with the 110-meter hurdles, followed with the discus and pole vault and finished the last two events—the javelin and 1500 meter run—in semi-darkness.

DOG-TRACK lights had to be turned on for the decathlon hurdles after their competition ran into the late evening. Yesterday's events were the 10 meter run, broad jump, shot put, high jump and 400 meter run.

Young Mathias' amazing proficiency in many athletic lines provided only one of the thrills for 55,000 fans who suffered through the dismal, drenching day at Wembley stadium.

The 30-year-old Dutch mother, Mrs. Fannie Blankers-Koen, made Olympic history by winning the 200-meter dash for her third championship of the games. Sweden's indefatigable Henri Eriksson scored a smashing upset to prevail in the gruelling 1500 meter run.

ANOTHER HOUSEWIFE—Pretty, Brunette Mrs. Victoria Draves of Pasadena, Calif.—also wrote a new chapter in the Olympic books when she won the women's high board diving competition and set off a fast string of American water triumphs.

This made an unprecedented women's diving sweep for the 23-year-old Californian of Filipino-English parentage, who earlier had taken top honors in the springboard. Patricia Ann Elsener, 18, of San Francisco was runnerup in the tower dive.

Allen Stack, Yale university's swim captain, captured the 100-meter backstroke. The U. S. team, anchored by blonde Ann Curtis of San Francisco, won the 400-meter women's relay and strengthened America's water victories to nine.

THE MEN have won every event in which they've competed—six in a row—and the women have taken down three crowns.

Stack splashed the 100-meter back stroke in 1:06.4, beating out teammate Robert Cowell of Pittsburgh, a Navy ensign.

The 22-year-old Miss Curtis was the star in the 400-meter relay conquest as the Americans won the event in the Olympic record time of 4 minutes, 29.2 seconds.

There was no official timing of Miss Curtis' 100-meter closing drive but unofficial clockers set her time at 1:04.2 for the 100 meter leg.

Giants Defeat Pirates, 7-6, To End Streak

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—The New York Giants staved off a last ditch rally to nose out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-6, today and end a three game losing streak.

Ray Poat had the Pirates tamed on six hits and enjoyed a 7-3 lead going into the ninth inning when an error by Bill Rigney sent the Pirates on a three run rally.

Rigney booted Ralph Kiner's leadoff grounder. After Max West fouled out, Frankie Gustine and Danny Murtaugh singled to plate Kiner and drive Poat from the hill in favor of Sheldon Jones.

JONES GOT Clyde Klutz to ground out with Gustine and Murtaugh advancing. Pinch-hitter Wally Westlake followed with a two-run single but Jones induced Stan Rojek to bounce out to end the game.

Poat, who now has failed to finish a game since July 15, doubled home three Giant runs in the third inning after Fritz Ostermuller intentionally walked Buddy Kerr to get at the usual light-hitting pitcher.

NEUN IS the fourth National league manager to be dropped this year. On Friday, July 16, Ben Chapman was ousted at Philadelphia only a few hours after Mel Ott's release as boss of the New York Giants was announced.

Leo Durocher was shipped to the Giants by Brooklyn and Burt Shotton was recalled from semi-retirement to direct the Dodgers.

The Reds have won 44 and lost 56 under Neun this season. Much was expected of them this year but the entire team showed the effects of an injury to Ewell Blackwell, generally rated the loop's best pitcher.

Neun came to the Reds after directing the New York Yankees for a short period at the close of 1946. Prior to that he had bossed Yankee

Souderton Rallies To Tie Pottstown In Loop Tilt, 3-3

A base hit off the bat of Bob Hughes scored Phil Dorn from third base in the last half of the seventh inning with the run that gave Souderton's American Legion Juniors a 3-3 tie with Pottstown last night at Souderton. Hughes' single off Jess Baro, the third hit in that inning, came with two men out.

B29s Land in Arizona After Global Flight

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 6 (AP)—Space-slashing B29s roared in and out of Davis-Monthan Air Force base today, cutting the world down to unimpressive size from a military standpoint.

Two Superfortresses completed the first round-the-world flight by the big bombers as dawn was breaking.

The globe-girdling planes returned 15 days after departure, flying in from Anchorage, Alaska, on the last leg. They made eight stops all told.

One of the three B29s which took off on the world flight went down in the sea off Aden, Southern Arabia, killing 17 of its crew of 18.

Thirty hours earlier, eight Superfortresses of the 20th Squadron, had thundered into the darkness on a one-stop 6000-mile flight to Lakenheath, England. A second squadron will leave early tomorrow and a third Sunday.

She is Mrs. Bernardine Munneke, 25, who called 50 of her woman acquaintances, asked them to buy no meat for a week and then observe three meatless days a week thereafter until prices break.

Each woman she called was asked to call five others.

"It's time we did something ourselves to make our dollars go farther," she explained. "We desire especially the support of people who can afford to pay $1.15 to $1.50 a pound for steak. If they get behind us, this protest will be effective."

She described the initial reaction as "wonderful."

Housewife Studies 13 Years, Finally Gets College Degree

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 6 (AP)—Thirteen years of night school study, sandwiched between baby-tending, housework and cooking, today paid off for dark-haired Mrs. Virginia Geary. She finally got her college diploma.

The 32-year-old mother of four children was graduated from Duquesne university with a bachelor of science degree.

One of the proudest spectators at the graduation ceremonies was her four-year-old son, Kevin. The 11-month-old twin girls, and Mark, 8, stayed at home.

"Mark said he'd rather stay home and play tiddly-winks," his mother laughingly explained.

"I'm going to concentrate on raising my family," she declared. "I'll rest a year—then I'm going back to school for my master's degree."

convenient baby and she lost no school-time with him.

Then came the twins the past September. Mrs. Geary didn't get back to school until February.

Her husband, now a successful lawyer, did the "baby-sitting" at night so his wife could attend classes.

"HE WAS REALLY wonderful," Mrs. Geary said. "It would have been impossible without his encouragement and co-operation. But he wouldn't help me with my homework. He drew the line at that."

Mrs. Geary was graduated from the school of commerce and would like some day to work in foreign trade. But not just now.

"I'm going to concentrate on raising my family," she declared. "I'll rest a year—then I'm going back to school for my master's degree."
